

AHA! : Deb Cowan sings maritime music in the garden; 1850s ladies hold garden party

AHA! Night at New Bedford Whaling National Historical Park

Debra Cowan sings maritime ballads in New Bedford Whaling National Historical Park's garden on Thursday evening, August 14 from 6:30-7:30 PM as part of New Bedford's AHA! night. The park is located at 33 William Street, New Bedford. AHA! (Art, History, Architecture) is a FREE arts & culture event which takes place the 2nd Thursday of every month in downtown New Bedford. This month's theme is A Midsummer's Night Eve.

That same evening, from 6-8pm, Ruth & Abby, the national park's 1850s ladies, request the pleasure of your company at a midsummer's night garden party. Join them under the colonnade at the 54th Infantry Plaza behind the Custom House. All events are free and open to the public.
