The Trustees of Reservations

to host Farmer's Market at Westport Town Farm

The Farmer's Market will kick-off on Saturday, June 14th and will continue through September on Saturdays from 830am -1pm (Illustration by Anne Winner)

The Trustees of Reservations, (The Trustees), the nation's oldest land trust and one of Massachusetts' largest conservation organizations, has announced the inaugural season of the Westport Farmer's Market at the Westport Town Farm, 830 Drift Rd., Westport, MA 02790. The Trustees welcome all to enjoy the relocated Westport Farmer's Market at Westport Town Farm on Saturdays all season long starting June 14th, 2014 from 830am-1pm. The market will host over 12 local vendors offering items ranging from local shellfish, fresh flowers, vegetables, jewelry and much more.

For a complete listing of vendors, please see below. This is the first season the market will be located at Westport Town Farm and the Trustees are excited to continue the summer tradition.

"The Trustees are proud to be the stewards of an iconic piece of town history, Westport Town Farm” says John Vasconcellos, Southeast Regional Director for the Trustees. “The addition of the Westport Farmer’s Market to Town Farm is a celebration of the property’s agricultural heritage and the spirit of how this community cares for itself.”

The Trustees who preserve for public use and enjoyment, properties of scenic, historic and ecological significance entered into a lease agreement with the Town of Westport in November of 2006, granting the organization the management authority of much of this historic landscape for public enjoyment. An antique farmhouse, dairy barn, corn crib, and stone walls dating back to Colonial times complete the picture of this bucolic working farm that served as a “poor farm” and infirmary for more than 100 years. In the fall of 2008, The Trustees initiated a Community Gardens project that honors the Town Farm’s tradition of helping to feed people in need in Westport and nearby towns. The addition of a Farmer’s Market to the many offerings at Westport Town Farm will further highlight the property’s agricultural tradition.

The property’s community garden and agricultural operations are spearheaded by Farm Manager Steve Connors. Mr. Connors has been with the Trustees for six years as the Farm Manager and is happy to have assisted in finding a new home for the Westport Farmer’s Market. “The addition of the Farmer’s Market to Town Farm is a great way to expand our agricultural offerings to the public while maintaining the tradition and spirit of this special place,” said Mr. Connors. “Farmer’s markets are as much about community as they are about contributing to the local farm economy, and I can’t think of a better place to host one.”

The Farmer’s Market will also host a variety of partner organizations offering activities for children and other entertainment. Golden Touch Alpaca Farm will be demonstrating Alpaca Shearing during the first week of the market, the second week will have a pickling demonstration by Dan George – founder of Smoke & Pickles – and throughout the season the market will incorporate new attractions each week. Market attendance is free to the public and all market related family activities are free as well. For more information on vendors, market products or a schedule of activities please contact sconnors@ttor.org.

Update on New Bedford High School Incident

New Bedford High School officials this morning reported that overnight the school was entered by an unknown individual/s and fire extinguishers were intentionally activated, releasing material into the air. The home economics area was also disrupted.

Superintendent Dr. Pia Durkin reported immediately to the school and worked closely with administrators to assess the situation. No students were admitted to the building while it was being inspected.

In consultation with New Bedford Fire Chief Michael Gomes, Dr. Durkin decided to “err on the side of caution” and cancel school today, given the presence of airborne particles, to prevent placing any students or staff at health risk.

All classes and other indoor activities at New Bedford High School are cancelled today. After-school sports and other outdoor activities will take place as scheduled. Some activities scheduled for tomorrow (Saturday) have been relocated to Keith Middle School across the street from the high school.

The New Bedford Police Department is conducting an investigation into the matter, including review of video from surveillance cameras. A team of environmental air quality experts is conducting a study of the facility today to ensure that the building can be safely reopened for classes to resume on Monday.

Parents were immediately notified of the situation using the district’s automated telephone calling service. Community groups with activities planned within the school have been notified. Students in need of supervision whose parents could not be reached have been relocated to Keith Middle School across the street.

“These were foolish and thoughtless actions that needlessly interrupted the great teaching and learning that goes on everyday at our high school,” said Dr. Durkin. “I am extremely grateful to the staff, parents, and students for their swift and thorough response to this incident, and to the New Bedford Police and Fire Departments for their immediate cooperation and professionalism.”

Dr. Durkin has contacted the Massachusetts Department of Elementary and Secondary Education to determine whether or not the school year at New Bedford High School must be extended by one day as a result of today's closure.

15 Things To Do This Weekend (May 30-June 01)

We still haven't shaken the passing showers theme that seems to have been commonly threaded throughout the past few weekends. Yes, moderate temperatures are here to stay – but the rain doesn't want to seem to let up. If you're like me, you actually enjoy some rain here and there. It's good for the earth, it's good for the soul. However, when you work all week and want to head outdoors to blow off some steam, you want a sunny, clear weekend once in a while! While we'll dip into the lower 40s in terms of low temperatures, we'll reach a high of 70 degrees on Sunday. Let's get out there and enjoy the many things to do on the South Coast!

As always, click on the title for more or detailed information on the event. Most of the events were pulled from our event calendar where you can find hundreds of local area events each month. The event calendar is FREE, so if you are a local business, and not taking advantage of FREE publicity, shame on you! Are you a local business and want to sponsor this high traffic, weekend guide? Contact info@newbedfordguide.com for more details. Have an event to add? Check out our tutorial. For more info, you can click on each title. Know of another event this weekend? Post a reply!

74 New Bedford High School Students Inducted Into National Honor Society

The annual induction ceremony of the New Bedford High School (NBHS) Chapter of the National Honor Society was held on May 21, 2014 in the New Bedford High School Philip Bronspiegel Auditorium.

A total of 74 students in the NBHS junior and senior classes were selected for membership by the faculty council. Selection for membership in the NBHS chapter of the National Honor Society is based on outstanding achievement in four areas: scholarship, leadership, service and character.

While students are inducted into the Honor Society in their Junior and Senior years, preparation for eligibility begins the Freshman year by establishing and maintaining an outstanding academic record. Furthermore, each aspiring freshman is encouraged to become active not only in school activities, but also in community affairs.

On an annual basis, Juniors and Seniors who have completed the requisite number of semesters and who have demonstrated academic excellence are invited to file an application for membership in the Honor Society. Each applicant is required to submit two letters of reference from teachers and a resume detailing past community service efforts. Eligible students completed the application process and were then evaluated based on the remaining virtues of character, service and leadership by the faculty council.

New Bedford Whaling National Historical Park offers free walking tours

New Bedford has a long and fascinating history, filled with stories of whalers going to sea for years at a time, wives left to run businesses, escaped slaves seeking freedom, and a connection to the sea that spans centuries. The public is invited to explore this history through free guided tours, offered on Saturday and Sunday from May 31 through June 21. The tours will be available seven days a week starting June 26 through August 31, at 10:30 AM and 2:30 PM. Tours leave from New Bedford Whaling National Historical Park's visitor center, located in downtown New Bedford. The park visitor center is located at 33 William Street in downtown New Bedford.

Tours will include Risks and Rewards of Whaling, Unknown Heroes and Their Secrets: New Bedford's Underground Railroad; New Bedford's Working Waterfront: Then and Now, and In Ishmael's Footsteps: Herman Melville's New Bedford.

Frank Barrows, Acting Superintendent of New Bedford Whaling National Historical Park, said, "The national park is proud to offer these dynamic walking tours to the public. The stories of whaling are relevant to so many people around the world—as well as our local community. National Park walking tours are one of several ways the park connects visitors to this amazing history. The cultural resources in the national park are a source of community pride and we look forward to seeing visitors from the Greater New Bedford area in addition to the tens of thousands of visitors who visit the park from around the globe.

FY 2015 budget earmarks for New Bedford

Senator Mark Montigny has amended the Senate FY 2015 budget to include major funding to boost tourism and enhance the arts & cultural renaissance on the South Coast.

"Securing local funding to aid in the growth and promotion of our communities economic, historic, and creative development, continued to be a top priority of mine in this budget. By securing funding for our innovative cultural and historical assets, in addition to unique opportunities for financially disadvantaged youth in the area, I believe our local economy continues to advance in a promising direction,” said Senator Montigny, who has been a longtime leader in transforming downtown New Bedford into a arts & cultural district.

This year funding attained by Senator Montigny in the FY15 budget includes:

- $75,000 to AHA! Art, History & Architecture New Bedford to put on its cultural nights, the first time this program has received designated direct funding in the state budget;
- $100,000 for the Zeiterion Performing Arts Center;
- $75,000 to the Frederick Douglass House to further its efforts to tell and highlight the story of Frederick Douglass in New Bedford;
- $75,000 to the New Bedford Ocean Explorium to establish outreach and educational programs for financially disadvantaged children in the Greater New Bedford area;
- $25,000 to New Bedford Theatre Festival;
- $50,000 for the Community Boating Center of New Bedford to provide financial aid for applicants to its summer youth boating programs;
- $50,000 for the Dennison Memorial Community Center for its upkeep and to aid in program funding;
- $50,000 to Buttonwood Park Zoo;
- $ 50,000 to Town of Dartmouth for its 350Th Anniversary

The funds secured by Senator Montigny in this year’s budget highlight his longtime support in developing local arts and culture in downtown New Bedford and his efforts to spur economic development in the region.

Bishop Stang Names Colbey Santos Head Boys Basketball Coach

*New coach
Colbey
Santos*

Bishop Stang High School, a diocesan, co-educational, college preparatory school located on the Southcoast of Massachusetts, announced it has hired Colbey Santos as its fourth head boys basketball coach in the school's history.

"We are excited to have someone of Colbey Santos' caliber join Bishop Stang as our next head boys basketball coach," said Ryan Sylvia, Athletic Director at Bishop Stang High School. "Coach Santos combines tremendous basketball knowledge with a passion for the game. He is dedicated to helping student-athletes grow both on and off the court, and will embody our mission to prepare young people for success in college and life."

"I am excited about this challenge and honored to become a Bishop Stang Spartan," said Colbey Santos, new head boys basketball coach. "Bishop Stang's tradition of academic, athletic and co-curricular excellence is widely known, and I am humbled to coach on the sideline once walked by the great John O'Brien."

Colbey Santos originally hails from Wareham, MA and is a graduate of Tabor Academy in Marion, MA, where he led a nationally ranked varsity squad. Santos played NCAA Division 1 basketball on full scholarship at James Madison University and the University of New Hampshire. At UNH Santos was an honor student and earned his Bachelor of Science in Sports Management. Upon graduating, Santos received an invitation to the Boston Celtics camp with then head coach Doc Rivers. Santos founded and was the head coach of his own local AAU basketball team, and also an assistant coach at the University of Massachusetts Dartmouth and Wareham High School. Currently, Santos works for Massachusetts Correctional Institution system and owns his own athletic performance training company in Dartmouth.

Four New Bedford Cemeteries Added to National Register of Historic Places

The City of New Bedford is pleased to announce that four New Bedford cemeteries have been officially added to the National Register of Historic Places – Griffin Street, Oak Grove, Rural and Jewish cemeteries. The City of New Bedford initiated the process to add them to the National Register of Historic Places and hopes the designation will foster broader appreciation of the historic significance these cemeteries hold.

The National Register is administered by the National Park Service and is the nation's official list of historic buildings, districts, sites, structures and objects that retain their historical character and are important to our local, state, or national history.

Many notable figures in both New Bedford and American history are interred in the cemeteries and the historic landscapes and architecture they contain allow these burial sites to serve as educational tools.

Mayor Jon Mitchell said, "At a least one of these cemeteries has existed for more than 200 years and each of them tells us a great deal about the history of our community, what its people have achieved, and how our society has evolved over time. Designation to the National Register raises awareness of these historic resources and has the potential to serve as a catalyst for broader preservation efforts."

Recently, New Bedford has seen a resurgence of public interest in its cemeteries as important historic resources. For example, hundreds attend the New Bedford Preservation Society's annual cemetery tours in which historic portrayals of local notable figures take place graveside.

Griffin Street Cemetery

The Griffin Street Cemetery was established in 1802 and although it was not the first cemetery in New Bedford Village it is the oldest surviving one, as earlier burial grounds were relocated. It is the only cemetery remaining in the commercial core of the city. Well-known and longstanding families of early Bedford Village are buried here and the cemetery includes markers by early Eastern Massachusetts stone carvers.

Rural Cemetery

Founded in 1837, New Bedford's Rural Cemetery is the fifth oldest such cemetery in the United States. It was the first cemetery in the city to be sited in a suburban location, and its earliest section reflects the transition from an earlier graveyard model to the rural cemetery concept with its winding avenues, irregular plots, and ample vegetation. Rural Cemetery is the final resting place for many of New Bedford's wealthiest, most renowned, and most accomplished citizens; many of them whaling merchants, city civic leaders, and persons significant in the larger national sphere such as American landscape painters Albert Pinkham Ryder and Albert Bierstadt, as well as abolitionist Daniel Drayton. The cemetery also includes a large section owned by the New Bedford Monthly Meeting of the Society of Friends and contains the graves of many of the city's African -American population.

Oak Grove Cemetery

Founded in 1843, Oak Grove Cemetery is the first publicly-owned cemetery in New Bedford. The old section of Oak Grove Cemetery, with its picturesque setting provided rural respite from rapid urbanization and served a dual role as a park in the mid 19th century. Old Oak Grove Cemetery also contains an exclusively African American section. The new section is ethnically the diverse representing the post-1890 city with people of Polish, Irish, Greek, German, Austrian, Scandinavian, and Portuguese descent who worked in the city's textile mills.

Jewish Cemetery

The Jewish Cemetery is an assemblage of the cemeteries of four New Bedford synagogues and one mutual aid society. In form and inscription content, the gravestones in the Jewish Cemetery are markedly distinct from non-Jewish cemeteries in the city; in large measure the narrow form of early markers and the overall density of the burial ground appear to sustain eastern European burial customs. Most specifically, Jewish gravestone iconography exists nowhere else in New Bedford.

Visit the Massachusetts Cultural Resource Information System (MACRIS) to search the Massachusetts Historical Commission database for more information on these historic properties and others in New Bedford and the Commonwealth.
