Nearly a quarter of Massachusetts labor force has filed for unemployment

Chris Lisinski
State House News Service

Nearly 900,000 Massachusetts workers, representing almost a quarter of the state's entire labor force, have filed new claims for unemployment benefits since mid-March as the COVID-19 pandemic and the widespread shutdowns it prompted continue to exert an economic toll.

Labor officials on Thursday reported 3.8 million initial standard unemployment insurance claims submitted nationwide between April 19 and April 25 and more than 70,000 in Massachusetts, the sixth straight week of elevated demand. Service industries such as restaurants and hotels have been hit particularly hard.

Over the past six weeks with the outbreak in full force, more than 30 million Americans have filed new applications for jobless aid in a historic surge. Massachusetts recorded more than 720,000 initial claims for unemployment insurance in the same span.

The state is also more than a week into offering aid to a range of applicants, including gig workers and the self-employed, who did not qualify for benefits until Congress expanded eligibility in the so-called CARES Act last month.

From April 19 to April 25, the Baker administration received 171,598 claims for that program, known as Pandemic Unemployment Assistance, the state Executive Office of Labor and Workforce Development said in a Thursday press release.

The office had said last week that it received more than 200,000 applications in the first three days. A spokesman could not be reached to clarify the difference between applications reported last week and claims reported in Thursday's update.

Many laid off workers are waiting to see when the government will begin easing restrictions that have left non-essential workplaces unable to open their doors to employees, customers or the public. The timing hinges on the success of efforts to bring the ongoing public health crisis under control.

Between unemployment insurance and the expanded PUA program, Massachusetts received 893,607 new claims between March 15 and April 25, the administration said.

Those new claims alone are about 24 percent of the state's adjusted labor force as counted in March, which totaled 3,740,600 workers, according to state data.

Combined with the roughly 2.9 percent seasonally adjusted unemployment rate observed before the start of the outbreak, some experts such as the Pioneer Institute's Greg Sullivan have projected that roughly one in four Massachusetts workers are now out of jobs.

Ongoing claims, which refer to those who seek continuing weeks of benefits, totaled 527,538 in Massachusetts last week, a roughly 14 percent increase over the previous week.

Industries most vulnerable to the economic cliff-plunge have been restaurants, hospitality and retail, according to state data. Among the more than half million workers who sought ongoing benefits last week, the Baker administration reported that 93,168 were in food and accommodation, 69,333 were in retail trade and 66,202 were in health and social assistance.

Worker Adjustment and Retraining (WARN) Act reports, which employers must file if they close facilities or units affecting at least 50 employees or either lay off or cut hours for a significant enough part of their workforce, offer an anecdotal snapshot supporting that trend. Many of the WARN reports filed with the state in last week's update came from restaurants such as Friendly's or other tourism-related businesses.

Four Boston hotels – The Ritz-Carlton Boston, InterContinental Hotel Boston, Westin Boston Waterfront and the operator of the Boston Park Plaza Hotel – each reported layoffs some time in the past six weeks affecting 200 or more employees.

The largest total in the most recent WARN update was from Boston University, which listed 1,633 employees affected by layoffs between March 17 and April 7. Colin Riley, a spokesman for the university, told the News Service that the report referred only to student workers in jobs at the school.

"They are all students who held part-time positions at the university," Riley said. "These were positions where the students were unable to work remotely."

All were given two weeks' pay ahead of their layoffs, Riley said, while those in federal work-study programs will continue to receive paychecks through the end of the semester. He added that there have been no layoffs of full-time BU faculty.

The state Department of Unemployment Assistance is paying standard benefits to about 450,000 people and PUA assistance to about 150,000 as of Thursday. Since March 15, the office said in its press release, it has paid more than $2.3 billion out to almost 700,000 total claimants across both programs.

Weekly benefits max out at $823. Massachusetts is responsible for standard unemployment insurance using premiums paid by employers, while the federal government will reimburse the costs of both PUA benefits and the additional $600 per week all recipients get as part of the so-called CARES Act.

The record level of need has dented the state's trust fund used to pay out support. On March 1, the Massachusetts unemployment insurance trust fund had a balance of about $1.63 billion, and that was down more than half to $748 million on April 16, according to U.S. Treasury Data.

Gov. Charlie Baker sought a $1.2 billion loan from the federal government in early April, writing that he believes Massachusetts will need injections of $900 million to cover costs in May and $300 million for June.

Massachusetts Announces Initial Implementation Of New Federal Unemployment Benefits From CARES Act

BOSTON – The Baker-Polito Administration today announced details for the initial implementation of federal unemployment benefits in the CARES Act, the federal based COVID-19 relief package. This federal program, enacted on March 27, 2020, will be administered by states. Today's announcement reflects the first set of partial guidance that Massachusetts will immediately implement to support unemployed workers. The Department of Unemployment Assistance (DUA) is moving swiftly to implement the new benefit programs and awaits additional guidance from the federal government for the remainder of benefits authorized by the CARES Act.

Understanding the great urgency of Commonwealth residents to access these benefits, DUA issued new guidance to instruct all residents of what actions they can take now.

Federal Pandemic Unemployment Compensation (FPUC): For Individuals Currently Collecting Benefits From Regular Unemployment Compensation:

Overview: An additional $600 per week for individuals collecting benefits from regular unemployment compensation is being implemented by DUA. The additional $600 will be added to unemployment benefits retroactive to March 29, 2020 and will begin being disbursed to claimants this week.

The FPUC program will provide an additional $600 per week to individuals who are collecting regular Unemployment Compensation (UC), Pandemic Emergency Unemployment Compensation (PEUC), Pandemic Unemployment Assistance (PUA), Extended Benefits (EB), Trade Readjustment Act (TRA), and Disaster Unemployment Assistance (DA). The Department has already begun implementing the FPUC program for regular UC claimants. The $600 will be added to all eligible weeks of benefits retroactive to March 29, 2020 and continuing until July 31, 2020. FPUC monetary disbursements will begin immediately in Massachusetts for those who are currently collecting benefits on regular UC claims. Those receiving PEUC, PUA, and EB will receive the additional $600 payments retroactive to March 29, 2020 as soon as their claims are processed and determined eligible.

Next Steps For Claimants: Eligible claimants who are already receiving UI do not need to do anything for the additional $600 to be added to their weekly benefit amount. This benefit will be available for all new claimants filing for regular Unemployment Compensation as well, which can be done at www.mass.gov/unemployment/covid-19

Pandemic Unemployment Assistance (PUA): For Individuals Not Covered Under Traditional Unemployment Insurance (Self-Employed, Gig Economy Workers, Others):

Overview: A benefit will be available for individuals not covered under traditional unemployment insurance like the self-employed or gig workers or those who do not qualify for lack of wages. DUA is now working with a vendor to build a new platform to disburse those benefits. This platform is expected to begin processing claims on or about April 30, 2020.

PUA will provide up to 39 weeks of unemployment benefits to individuals who are not working as a result of COVID-19 and are self-employed, independent contractors, gig economy workers, and others who otherwise would not qualify for regular UC or EB under state or federal law or PEUC. These individuals will not be able to claim benefits directly through the UI Online System in Massachusetts, as of this time. The Department of Unemployment Assistance has engaged a vendor to build a new platform to disburse PUA benefits. The platform is expected to begin accepting PUA claims by April 30, 2020. Eligible claimants under PUA will be retroactively compensated with this benefit beginning February 2, 2020, or the first week a claimant was unable to work as a result of COVID-19, whichever date is later. The last week this benefit is payable is the week ending December 26, 2020.

Next Steps For Claimants: Eligible claimants should continue to check for updates at www.mass.gov/unemployment/covid-19 on the new platform, which will be ready this month. Once the system is up and running, eligible claimants will receive this benefit backdated to February 2, 2020, or the first week a claimant was unable to work as a result of COVID-19.

Pandemic Emergency Unemployment Compensation (PEUC): For Individuals Who Exhausted

Previous UI Benefits:

Overview: A 13-week extension of benefits for individuals who exhausted their previous benefits – is not yet available as DUA continues to await federal implementation guidance.

The PEUC program provides up to 13 weeks of unemployment insurance benefits to individuals who have exhausted their previous unemployment benefits. The first week a claimant can be compensated on this benefit is the week beginning March 29, 2020, and the last payable week is the week ending December 26, 2020. The Department of Unemployment Assistance is awaiting additional federal guidance on how to implement and administer this program and the extended weeks of PEUC benefits are not yet available.

Next Steps For Claimants: No action at this time. Eligible claimants should continue to check for updates, which will be made available as soon as the state receives information from the federal government.

DUA is committed to moving as quickly as possible to get workers the benefits they deserve during these unprecedented times and will continue to communicate with the public about the status of these benefit programs.
