Man recounts the 911 call that saved two women and their puppies

The following is Patrick Moore's account during a recent fire in New Bedford. His 4am 9-1-1 call likely saved all of the occupants of the house to include two women and their puppies.

"As I was leaving for work at 4am today I noticed a bright light a few houses from me. It turns out a house was on fire.

Nobody else was around so I called 911 and started banging on the front door. I heard dogs barking. I wasn't sure if they were inside the house or if the noise was coming from a nearby neighbor's house. Running around the house, I banged on every window. Still, nobody came out.

The first police officer arrived, and after a few attempts, he kicked a hole in the front door. We both assumed nobody was home at that point. Within minutes several fire engines showed up along with a few more police officers. The firemen attached their hoses to a nearby hydrant, and I walked away since I had to leave for work.

I grabbed my coffee and my wallet from my apartment and decided to walk toward the burning house one more time to have another look. Standing outside in their pajamas were two women. One was in her early twenties and the other was much older. The younger woman was holding two puppies. Both women were very upset. The puppies seemed unfazed. I realized that they had all been in the house while I was knocking. I'm not sure how they slept through all the commotion. It wasn't until the firefighters entered that they realized what was going on.

The whole experience was surreal. I'm glad I was up at 4am. If I hadn't called 911 when I did things probably would have turned out much worse. Two people and their pets may have lost their home today, but they're alive and uninjured. Always count your blessings, test your smoke detectors, and hug your puppies." – Patrick Moore

National Weather Service issues Heat Advisory for Southeastern Massachusetts and RI

The National Weather Service in Taunton has issued a Heat Advisory, which is in effect from 1 PM this afternoon to 6 PM EDT this evening.

* Location...Most of Rhode Island and Southeastern Massachusetts.

* Heat Index Values...In the mid 90s due to temperatures in the low 90s, and dewpoints in the upper 60s.

* Timing...this afternoon.

* Impacts...The heat and humidity may cause heat stress during outdoor exertion or extended exposure.

PRECAUTIONARY/PREPAREDNESS ACTIONS...

A Heat Advisory means that a period of hot temperatures is expected. The combination of hot temperatures and high humidity will combine to create a situation in which heat illnesses are possible. Drink plenty of fluids, stay in an air-conditioned room, stay out of the sunshine, and check up on relatives and neighbors.

Take extra precautions, if you work or spend time outside. When possible, reschedule strenuous activities to early morning or evening. Know the signs and symptoms of heat exhaustion and heat stroke. Wear light weight and loose fitting clothing when possible and drink plenty of water.

To reduce risk during outdoor work, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration recommends scheduling frequent rest breaks in shaded or air conditioned environments. Anyone overcome by heat should be moved to a cool and shaded location. Heat stroke is an emergency, call 9 1 1.

Two arrested on drug charges in Buzzards Bay port security operation that include New Bedford Police

Two men were arrested Wednesday on drug charges while aboard a fishing vessel in Buzzards Bay as a result of a port security operation with New Bedford Police Maritime Special Response Team, Massachusetts Environmental Police, the Department of Homeland Security and the New Bedford Police Port Security Unit.

Juan Sanchez, 48, of 5874 Lourdes Blvd., El Paso, Texas, was charged with possession of Oxycodone. He was found with nine tablets in his possession.

Miguel Angel Zarate, 41, of 5991 Jefferson Ave. trailer 69, Newport News, Virginia, was charged with possession of Oxycodone. He was found with 32 tablets in his possession.

The two men were charged after members of the security operation boarded the fishing vessel Blue Ocean, which is homeported in Virginia. The vessel was headed outbound from the Port of New Bedford.

Members of the operation routinely board vessels headed out to sea to ensure that no drugs are aboard, which could result in dangerous and even fatal consequences, especially if the boat is far out at sea.

This operation was developed at the request of fishing boat owners, who were concerned for the safety of their crews.

Fishing can be a dangerous profession and this operation aims to reduce the risk of possible overdoses or other illnesses. "We're trying to make sure that a fisherman's job is as safe as possible," said Major Patrick Moran of the Massachusetts Environmental Police. "Our goal is to keep these fishermen safe and to steer them to resources that can help them with their substance issues."

The boat was boarded at about 11:30 a.m. in the area of the Butler Flats lighthouse. The men were brought to police headquarters, where they were booked.
