Recycling of Boat Shrink Wrap Offered by Dartmouth and Frade's Disposal April to June

New this year the Town of Dartmouth is accepting boat shrink wrap at the Dartmouth Transfer Station. Also, Frade's Disposal can accept boat wrap at their New Bedford facility.

"Shrink wrap is a valuable recyclable plastic and it is a waste of our limited disposal resources at Crapo Hill to treat it as garbage. We are working with the Waterways Commission and the Harbormaster to alert individual boaters and boat yards of this win win solution to the annual shrink wrap disposal problem." said David Hickox, Director of Public Works in the Town of Dartmouth.

White and blue boat wrap are accepted at the transfer station and at Frade's Disposal. Zippers and straps must be removed and discarded. Spray painted wrap cannot be accepted.

Dartmouth Transfer Station permit holders may take boat wrap to the Dartmouth Transfer Station, April through June. There is a container for boat wrap only. The Dartmouth Transfer Station is open Tuesday and Thursday from 7:30 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. and Saturday from 7:30 a.m. to 2:45 p.m. Dartmouth residents who would like to obtain a transfer station permit, or a day pass, may call the Dartmouth DPW at (508) 999-0740.

Boat wrap can also be taken to Frade's Disposal, 781 Church Street in New Bedford for recycling. No transfer station permit is needed, and there is no charge. For more information, call (508) 995-9121 or visit fradesdisposal.com.

For more information, contact the Refuse District's recycling office by phone at (508) 979-1493 or by email at recycling@newbedford-ma.gov.

Faces Of New Bedford #97: Cait Joseph

Meet Caitlin Joseph, 31-year-old Personal Trainer and Nutrition coach at Boutique Fitness.

From a young age, Cait was always involved in competitive sports, but it wasn't until her senior year of high school and starting college that her interest in the weight room and running really took off. After graduating from Johnson & Wales with a degree in Marketing Communications, she started working in the marketing field.

Boutique Fitness opened in 2012 and Cait fell in love with their functional approach to fitness and the camaraderie that came with working out in small groups. It didn't take long before she became a part of the movement. Shortly after Cait became a client, Angela Corrieri-Johnson and Lara Harrington asked her to be the first to join their team. With their support and guidance, Cait obtained her ISSA certification and began taking on clients at the studio. Working with clients of different fitness levels everyday, all of the trainers at Boutique Fitness strive to help their members achieve their fitness goals without comparing themselves to others.

Often times, what holds individuals back from reaching their goals, is their self doubt and lack of confidence. With that in mind, Lara and Cait decided that bringing up the topic to school age students would be a perfect opportunity to discuss the sensitive issues of body image and self esteem, before they snow ball into life long issues to be dealt with through adulthood. This led to the program – Mindful Me – Supported by Boutique Fitness, spearheaded by Cait Joseph.

The program was designed to bring up the topics of positive body image, mindfulness, and confidence. Topics that many students are often too embarrassed or nervous to talk about. This program gives them an appropriate outlet and support system for this kind of conversation. They just completed the pilot program at Our Sisters' School and had a very positive experience. Cait hopes to continue at Our Sisters' School and watch the program grow.

"I get to make people feel better and work towards reaching their goals everyday. I have the best job in the world!"

driving child safety tips

During two separate motor vehicle stops Sunday by New Bedford Police, a troubling discovery was made in the back seat.

In one case, a young boy was jumping in the back seat of a vehicle, completely unrestrained.

In the second situation, three young people – a 16-year-old, 14-year-old and two 10-year-olds – were unbuckled in the back seat.

In both cases, the drivers broke the law and put the children at risk of serious injury, or worse.

Motor vehicle crashes are among the leading causes of death for children ages 3 to 14. This risk can be reduced by having children ride in a properly fastened and secured safety seat.

Even a sudden stop can seriously injure a child who is not secured in the right type of child safety seat.

It's important to understand vehicle restraint regulations, which vary by age. Remember: The back seat is the safest place in a vehicle for children.

From birth to 12 months, the child should ride in a rear-facing car seat.

From one to three years of age, children should remain in a rear-facing car seat until they reach the top height or weight limit allowed by the child seat manufacturer. Once they outgrow the rear-facing seat, they are ready to travel in a forward-facing seat with a harness.

From ages four to seven, keep the child in a forward-facing car seat with a harness until he or she reaches the top height or weight limit allowed by the child seat's manufacturer. Once the child outgrows the forward-facing seat, it's time to travel in a booster seat in the back seat of the car.

Massachusetts law requires that the child remain secured in a federally approved booster seat/safety belt combination until he or she reaches eight years old or 57 inches (4' 9'') in height.

At the time, children are required to wear adult safety belts, properly adjusted to their size. Anyone 13 and older is required to wear a seat belt.

These regulations aim to keep everyone safe. Ignoring them can have legal consequences.

If a passenger is at least 13 years old but not yet 16, then the operator can be issued a citation. If a passenger is 16 years of age or older then the passenger gets issued the citation
