

Fairhaven and Dartmouth Police nab two Fairhaven residents for narcotics

John Reynolds (23) and William Roldan (46) both from Fairhaven were arrested on a number of narcotics charges.

Fairhaven and Dartmouth Police Detectives, working with the Bristol County Sheriffs Department South Coast Anti Crime Team, arrested two suspects just after 7:00 Tuesday morning for assorted narcotics offenses. Investigators were in the area at that time, planning to execute a search warrant for the second floor apartment located at 30 Spring Street. While they were preparing to enter the premises, they observed the resident of the apartment complete a hand-to-hand drug transaction inside the house.

Detectives moved in on both suspects, who attempted to flee from the area. Suspects, identified as 23 John Reynolds of 199 Main Street, Fairhaven and 46 year old William Roldan of 30 Spring Street, Fairhaven, were apprehended as they exited the house.

Reynolds was found to be in possession of heroin, which he had just obtained from Roldan. He was charged with possession of a class a controlled substance and conspiracy to violate drug laws. Roldan was charged with numerous offenses including distribution of a class a controlled substance subsequent offense, possession with intent to distribute a class a controlled substance subsequent offense, conspiracy to violate drug laws, possession of a class b controlled substance, three counts of possession of a class e controlled substance, possession of a stun gun and school zone violations. Both suspects were arraigned Tuesday afternoon in Third District Court.
