

Leading the Profit Sharing Revolution

This week, NewBedfordGuide.com will lead a new blogging revolution by offering our current and future writers the chance to earn a lifetime profit from their published articles. Full requirements on becoming a writer can be found here. We are also looking for writers for Providence Guide and Fall River Guide.

All writers will earn 50% “Ad Time” on their articles. This means that when a reader views an article, 50% of all ad space will be reserved for the NewBedfordGuide.com writer who produced that article. For example, if an article is viewed 100 times a day, the author will get ads served on 50 of the views. This reserved ad space can be used in two ways:

1. The author can sign-up for Google Adsense and have relevant ads appear in and around their articles. Authors will earn money any time their ads are served and clicked on by a reader. Google allows for a maximum of three banners to show up per page.
2. An author can find a sponsor to pay a monthly fee to “sponsor” their articles. For example, an author that writes about bars and nightlife can have bars, breweries or other related businesses pay a monthly sponsorship fee to have their banner ads served in that author’s articles. Each author is allowed three ad spots (supporting up to three sponsors). All sponsor money goes directly to the author.

So, what happens to the other 50% ad time? The NewBedfordGuide.com Editor-in-Chief will receive 25% of all ad time and NewBedfordGuide.com will receive the final 25%.
