

As more people head outside, Massachusetts Environmental Police remind the public to hike smartly

“Due to the warmer weather approaching and current recommendations for social distancing, more people are finding themselves recreating in the outdoors.

The Massachusetts Environmental Police remind the public to hike smartly, wear a life jacket, operate motorized vehicles responsibly, and buy a fishing license. Officers are still on patrol. Enjoy nature!”

Massachusetts State Police photos.

