New Bedford is ready for ArtWeek 2019

The City of New Bedford is embracing ArtWeek 2019 with a host of events and activities that spotlight the city's arts and culture community in a unique manner.

From Friday, April 26 through Sunday, May 5, and from one end of the city to the other, arts patrons are invited to discover creative experiences that are hands-on, interactive or offer behind-the-scenes access to artists or the artistic process in New Bedford.

ArtWeek is a statewide annual festival, which encourages each community to shine a spotlight on its creativity. Since 2013, ArtWeek has been produced by the Boch Center, a Boston-based nonprofit innovator and steward of iconic venues providing arts, entertainment, cultural, and educational experiences. ArtWeek is part of its strategy to strengthen its community role beyond historic downtown Boston theaters. Highland Street Foundation has also been an important presenting sponsor since 2013, and recently, Mass Cultural Council and Massachusetts Travel and Tourism (MOTT) have joined in as statewide Lead Champions.

New Bedford has taken part in ArtWeek activities since the concept went statewide, but 2019 represents a watershed year for its partnership with the festival. A diverse menu of one-of-a-kind experiences await both residents and visitors.

The range of ArtWeek happenings run the gamut of arts and culture in New Bedford. From film and poetry for children at Youth Opportunities Unlimited (Y.O.U.) in the south end, to the street festival Viva Portugal! downtown outside the Zeiterion Performing Arts Center, and, the mammoth Hatch Street Studios Arts Weekend in the north end.

In all, ArtWeek is a 10-day celebration of the city's arts and culture.

"ArtWeek 2019 is the perfect opportunity for residents and visitors to experience New Bedford's vibrant arts and culture scene, and the numerous people and organizations who contribute to our creative city," said Mayor Jon Mitchell.

"One of my goals as Creative Strategist for the City of New Bedford is to broadcast the amazing diversity of what we term #NBCreative to the broadest possible audience," says Margo Saulnier. "ArtWeek is a terrific chance to showcase our arts community, come together as a creative city, and welcome guests from throughout the region to join us."

New Bedford's ArtWeek events calendar is being shared with all local and regional media outlets. Additionally, you can find everything scheduled throughout the festival at destinationnewbedford.org/events or calendar.artweekma.org. Enter "New Bedford" in the keyword search for the full listings. Most ArtWeek events are free to attend.

Throughout 2018, the City of New Bedford embarked on a mission to produce its first-ever Arts and Culture Plan. That plan was released in December 2018 and a Creative Consortium of arts and culture partners formed shortly after the New Year to begin enacting its goals.

The mission statement that guides them is as follows: In New Bedford, the creative community is an engaged and powerful partner, inspiring social, economic, and cultural growth. In this authentic seaport city, each and every person enjoys an opportunity to experience a diversity of cultures. Art is everywhere, encouraging fun, provoking thought and nurturing the soul."

OPINION: New Bedford's missing ingredients to being a better community

In response to our 'Apathy is the main problem with New Bedford, not crime' article posted to our Facebook page, Lois Wiseman posted her thoughts on how New Bedford is different than her new hometown in Canada.

*I no longer live in New Bedford. I married and moved to Canada. Over the past few years, I've tried to figure out how life, and people are different here. I think you hit the nail on the head.

Here are a few things that work here to make a vibrant, safe life and a community of involved citizens. You may not agree, and I'm not picking on you, just telling what life is like here.

First: When parents take their children out to a restaurant, you hardly ever see video games or tablets.

Next: Every town or community has a community center. Most have an ice arena, meeting rooms, a theater and town offices are located there. This week there is a Shop Local Fair, with vendors, and a Sustainability Fair, with a variety of green businesses. We have a dog park for people to meet with their dogs. We have hiking trails. People volunteer here. The hospital auxiliary, just this week, donated $77,000 to the local hospital. We have a yearly indoor yard sale which covers an ice rink, called Hey Day. About 60 volunteers run it and make $36,000 for the hospital. We have an active youth center. We have a group for youth, called Sea Cadets, which gives them a look at what a military career would involve. Every town has a weekend farmers' market, well-attended by the town people.

We don't have handguns. Canadians are reputed to be polite, and they are. People hold doors for each other. Family values are strong here. Kids play outside in the cold, because every child has a snowsuit. There are volunteer drives to be sure of that. We still have ham and bean suppers, pig roasts and old fashioned barbecues. That all being said, my town is about the size of Acushnet, smaller than New Bedford. I'm still working out the differences.

I visit the New Bedford area quite often. I have a different set of social skills for New Bedford, quite often driven by not feeling safe in public. I drive differently. I am afraid to drive in New Bedford and on Rt. 195. There are no cell phones in the car, or even eating, in Ontario. The fines are stiff. Speeding and reckless driving fines are stiff, and you lose your license. There are no gangs in my area, and there is little vandalism and no graffiti. I don't have an answer for New Bedford. I'm just telling what I see here that works.

Hope you read this without judging me. I miss my hometown, but life is good here, too.

– Lois Wiseman

Solshine Yoga offers the South Coast a unique and transformative yoga experience like no other

The word yoga is increasingly becoming an English word in the same way pizza, latte and pajamas have become “English.” Words adopted from other languages that have become such a part of our culture that they seem like they are English words and have always been there.

The idea and the word have been assimilated which is something truly at the heart of yoga: being inclusive, bringing together, uniting. In fact, the word itself is Sanskrit for union. Why has yoga become a part of American culture? Why has it become so popular? Why is there hip-hop yoga, nude yoga, aerial yoga, rave yoga. and even yoga with goats? Why is it “cool” to update your social media with images of people doing āsana or postures?

Plain and simply said: it produces results.

If you do yoga regularly you will get results and those results will go far beyond physical improvements and extend to every aspect of life: your well-being, mental flexibility, happiness, lowering your blood pressure, produce a quieter and calmer mind, improve your ability to deal with stressful situations at home and work, gain clearer thought processes, and more. In essence, to “do” yoga is to improve every nook and cranny of who you are – physically, mentally, psychologically, spiritually.

That is why this import is as American as apple pie and so incredibly popular.

However, this presents its own problem: with so many yoga studios and instructors where do we go? Who is affordable, knowledgeable, and capable of addressing a variety of needs and levels? Who can we trust in this vast ocean of choices? Where do we start? Do I have to be in shape? Do I have to be athletic or flexible? Is it strenuous enough to lose weight? What if I am already athletic – will it actually challenge me? These and many more questions are a normal, natural part of the process.

One of the studios that has entered this crowded arena is Solshine Yoga on West Rodney French Blvd. Started in 2018 by co-owners, business partners and “soul friends” Erin Poyant and Sarah Moniz, their objective was to bring world-class yoga with all its many physical and mental benefits right here to the South Coast; to share the transformation and power of yoga that they themselves have experienced.

I can attest personally to the benefits: after years of combat sports I took up yoga as a way to increase flexibility and compliment my training but I quickly found out that it is far more than a stretching routine and as much of an athlete as I was, I learned that a good instructor can challenge the most athletic person. That was more than 25 years ago, I was hooked -that is the power of yoga.

In 2017, I had a major stroke and woke up in the ICU at Mass General after being in a coma for three days. I had to relearn to tell time, walk, count change, talk, use my left side, loss of balance and too many other aspects that come with a stroke. As soon as I could stand I did yoga and I can say unequivocally it is directly responsible for my mental and physical recovery, likely my life. I went from having no balance, limping, and barely being able to stand to nursing myself back to health after a year and a half by solely using yoga as a rehabilitation program.

This demonstrates not only the benefits, but the accessibility of yoga to a wide range of people, virtually everyone regardless of how strong and athletic you are...or how physically challenged and awkward you are, and how little balance, coordination and strength you have. If a person who can barely stand or hold himself up can do it, you can do it and transform your life for the better.

What the ladies felt was pivotal to convey was this very thing. That yoga is genuinely for everyone. This is not a cliché or platitude but people from every walk of life are giving yoga a whirl. There are levels to yoga and a good coach does not cookie-cutter everyone – you are not a number among an anonymous group but that coach will get to know you and your wants and needs.

Want to learn to de-stress and relax? Deal better with the incessant chatter in your head? Your anger, fear, and anxiety? Lose weight? Increase your flexibility, utilize yoga as a recovery program for intense athletics? Lower blood pressure? Deal with anxiety better? Build confidence?

Yoga is for you.

If there is any doubt about the inclusiveness of their classes, a quick glance over the social media accounts attached to the studio – or better a visit – will show a reflection the variety of individuals that attend Solshine Yoga. Young, old, overweight, men, women, children, athletes, the uncoordinated, beginners and advanced alike.

In the genuine interest of bringing the best that yoga can offer, Erin and Sarah take into account each person's "starting point," then maps out a way for them to get to where they want to be, but they do it in a way that is thoroughly enjoyable and rewarding. Knowing full well that there are as many reasons a person will come to yoga as there are people, they offer a yoga experience that incorporates different styles of yoga, meditation, Reiki, breathing techniques (Prāṇāyāma), aromatherapy, sound healing, and positive messaging (learning to be more optimistic on attitude and approach to life.)

You can check out the variety of workshops like Family Yoga, Buti Glow, Make a Mala Bracelet and Mantra Meditation, Restorative Yoga & Sound, Reiki and others here. If you prefer yoga or these workshops in a more private setting, you can do that as well.

Erin, Sarah and all the instructors at Solshine Yoga (all of whom are certified and have over 200 hours teaching experience) bring all of these components together to offer a unique experience that is flexible in its approach to an individual's needs – a sort of prescription.

"All instructors have full creative freedom, allowing each class to be a new experience that is personalized to the clients in the room. Incorporating different techniques like sound healing and aromatherapy together with Yoga enhances the experience for clients and also makes it easier for them to receive the mental and emotional benefits all of these healing practices are meant to provide," said Erin.

“Clients describe leaving class ‘with a clear mind and a full heart’ and ‘grounded and refreshed.’ added Sarah. “It’s about feeling the mind/body connection.” That is another layer of the meaning behind the word itself – the union of body and mind.

Their approach, attitude, and outlook are what makes them stand out like a tsunami among the vast ocean of waves that are yoga studios. All stemming from a shared vision and passion between the two girls who met teaching yoga and workshops together at various studios and centers throughout the South Coast.

Want to talk knowledge and expertise?

Erin is working towards her 500-hour RYT (Registered Yoga Teacher) certification through Yoga Medicine – a program that fuses eastern and western healing principles with a focus on how Yoga can heal the body. Erin is also a Reiki Master. Sarah is a 200-hour RYT, advanced Buti Yoga instructor and Energy Medicine I practitioner. Sarah is also has a Reiki Master certification.

Complimenting the studio is a natural backdrop: beautiful water views. While seemingly of not much import, the ladies feel that it is actually very important as “Yoga is a very personal practice and clients need to feel comfortable and safe in their space. Seeing the sun rising, or sun setting or seeing the sunshine on the cove water brings in the healing element of nature that we are all missing in our lives so much spending most of our time indoors or driving in the car.” Sarah explained.

Nature is a much better “gimmick” to attract one to yoga.

So no matter where you are in life in terms of your physical ailments, abilities or capabilities there are benefits waiting for you at Solshine Yoga. A better you in every way – physically and mentally is one small step away and one that costs nothing: your first class is completely free. Free because Erin and Sarah know that once you have a taste of what they are doing and what it does for you, you’ll be hooked. All it is required to a new better you? Just you and your ability to breathe.

No goats, no wine, no gimmicks needed.

Want to give Solshine Yoga a try? Beyond that first free class, Solshine Yoga offers a “Buy 2 Get 2 Free” package of 4 classes for $30 to new clients. In addition, every weekend there are specialty workshops like Family Yoga, Restorative Yoga and Sound, Buti Glow with Live DJ Ace on Earth, etc. You can even book classes online!

New Bedford High School Drama Club presents “The Secret Garden,” April 5-7

New Bedford High School Drama Club is perfectly poised to usher in spring with its musical production of The Secret Garden, this weekend only, April 5-6-7 at Pulaski School Auditorium.

The Secret Garden is a classic children's novel, written over a century ago by Francis Hodgson Burnett (1849-1924), continues to have great popular appeal, moving audiences young and old with feelings of comfort, nostalgia, and fantasies of the English countryside.

The story, staged as a musical, centers around Mary Lennox, a young girl who has spent her childhood living in India. When her parents are stricken with cholera, Mary, played by Jayden Lima, is sent to live with her mysterious uncle at Misselthwaite Manor in London, Archibald Craven, played by Trevor Lopes. The Uncle has kept himself busy ever since his wife, Lily's, death ten years before. He remains away from the manor, away from their son Colin, played by Aydan Sullo, and far from the walled garden that Lily loved so dearly. When Mary finds the key to the garden door, she enlists the help of her new friend, Dickon, played by Quinn Mulvey and others to make the neglected garden bloom yet again. In doing so, she discovers flowers that appear dead only need a little bit of care to flourish again – and that the same can be true of the people we love. Dr. Craven is played by Jakob Braz.

Sophomore Sara Cravo, playing the role of Lily, says that the garden is a metaphor for everyday life. "Anyone can grow from their struggles. There's a certain point where everyone gets sad but there will always be people to lift you up and help you grow again." Freshman Kyanna Morse, plays Lieutenant Wright and a member of the ghostly ensemble, agrees. "Like the garden, everyone here at drama club has helped me blossom into my best self and truly express myself."

A prevalent theme in The Secret Garden is the way in which our past is always with us, as represented visually by the chorus of ghosts – the 'dreamers' – who aid in telling the story.

Jessica Brito, a sophomore, notes "The ghosts symbolize things lost, and are a metaphor for the way your past can follow you. We all have things that we cling to, and that hold us back."

Jessica plays the ghost of Ayah, Mary's childhood nursemaid in India.

For Drama Club co-Director Sarah Cadieux Pacheco, this musical represents a special moment from her past: "This was the last musical I performed as a member of my own high school drama club. The music is beautiful, and it has always been one of my favorite stories, so when I was thinking of a warm, family-friendly show to juxtapose last year's dark performance of Sweeney Todd, this seemed like the perfect fit."

The Secret Garden the novel is a poignant tale about embracing the past and of self-discovery. The musical is no different, as the tale of the eponymous garden is told in sweeping songs, narrated by a ghostly chorus – manifestations of Mary's memories from her life in India, Archibald's old family and friends, and the spirits of the garden itself. Though the story centers on the garden, it is truly about the effects of the past that we cling to, and the way we can reconnect with the people around us to help one another to fully bloom.

Production of this year's NBHS Drama Club musical is being performed at Pulaski Elementary School Auditorium, as extensive renovations are being completed at New Bedford High School's Bronspiegel Auditorium. Pulaski School is located at 1097 Braley Road, New Bedford, MA 02745.

Seating is limited and no tickets will be sold or reserved in advanced, so all tickets must be purchased at the door beginning 1 hour before each show. Tickets are $10 for students/seniors and $12 for adults. On Friday, April 5 and Saturday, April 6, performances begin at 7:00 p.m., with a 2:00 p.m. matinee performance on Sunday, April 7. The Secret Garden is appropriate for all ages and is presented with permission from Samuel French, Inc.

New Bedford High School Drama Club presents The Secret Garden

By Jamie Roballo, sophomore, NBHS Drama Club

New Bedford High School Drama Club is perfectly poised to usher in spring with its musical production of The Secret Garden, this weekend only, April 5-6-7 at Pulaski School Auditorium.

The Secret Garden is a classic children's novel, written over a century ago by Francis Hodgson Burnett (1849-1924), continues to have great popular appeal, moving audiences young and old with feelings of comfort, nostalgia, and fantasies of the English countryside.

The story, staged as a musical, centers around Mary Lennox, a young girl who has spent her childhood living in India. When her parents are stricken with cholera, Mary, played by Jayden Lima, is sent to live with her mysterious uncle at Misselthwaite Manor in London, Archibald Craven, played by Trevor Lopes. The Uncle has kept himself busy ever since his wife, Lily's, death ten years before. He remains away from the manor, away from their son Colin, played by Aydan Sullo, and far from the walled garden that Lily loved so dearly. When Mary finds the key to the garden door, she enlists the help of her new friend, Dickon, played by Quinn Mulvey and others to make the neglected garden bloom yet again. In doing so, she discovers flowers that appear dead only need a little bit of care to flourish again – and that the same can be true of the people we love. Dr. Craven is played by Jakob Braz.

Sophomore Sara Cravo, playing the role of Lily, says that the garden is a metaphor for everyday life. “Anyone can grow from their struggles. There’s a certain point where everyone gets sad but there will always be people to lift you up and help you grow again.” Freshman Kyanna Morse, plays Lieutenant Wright and a member of the ghostly ensemble, agrees. “Like the garden, everyone here at drama club has helped me blossom into my best self and truly express myself.”

A prevalent theme in The Secret Garden is the way in which our past is always with us, as represented visually by the chorus of ghosts – the ‘dreamers’ – who aid in telling the story.

Jessica Brito, a sophomore, notes “The ghosts symbolize things lost, and are a metaphor for the way your past can follow you. We all have things that we cling to, and that hold us back.” Jessica plays the ghost of Ayah, Mary’s childhood nursemaid in India.

For Drama Club co-Director Sarah Cadieux Pacheco, this musical represents a special moment from her past: “This was the last musical I performed as a member of my own high school drama club. The music is beautiful, and it has always been one of my favorite stories, so when I was thinking of a warm, family-friendly show to juxtapose last year’s dark performance of Sweeney Todd, this seemed like the perfect fit.”

The Secret Garden the novel is a poignant tale about embracing the past and of self-discovery. The musical is no different, as the tale of the eponymous garden is told in sweeping songs, narrated by a ghostly chorus – manifestations of Mary’s memories from her life in India, Archibald’s old family and friends, and the spirits of the garden itself. Though the story centers on the garden, it is truly about the effects of the past that we cling to, and the way we can reconnect with the people around us to help one another to fully bloom.

Production of this year's NBHS Drama Club musical is being performed at Pulaski Elementary School Auditorium, as extensive renovations are being completed at New Bedford High School's Bronspiegel Auditorium. Pulaski School is located at 1097 Braley Road, New Bedford, MA 02745.

Seating is limited and no tickets will be sold or reserved in advanced, so all tickets must be purchased at the door beginning 1 hour before each show. Tickets are $10 for students/seniors and $12 for adults. On Friday, April 5 and Saturday, April 6, performances begin at 7:00 p.m., with a 2:00 p.m. matinee performance on Sunday, April 7. The Secret Garden is appropriate for all ages and is presented with permission from Samuel French, Inc.
