

Places To Go livery service thrives with friendly, professional service, impeccable safety record, and affordability

This isn't some utility van. You would think you were in an upscale limousine!

A lot has changed since we first told you about New Bedford native Ed Pacheco's livery service company, Places To Go. While Ed still offers that same friendly, prompt, professional and affordable service, he has grown from a few employees to a dozen full and part time staff. In addition, he grown to 8 vehicles and has relocated – still in New Bedford – to a larger office at 1 Wamsutta Street.

Who would want such a service? What exactly is a livery service? Why has Places To Go grown so fast?

Places To Go has grown from one passionate person and vehicle to a dozen employees and eight vehicles.

Started in 2011, “Places To Go” specializes in private livery and does it in superlative fashion. Pacheco thoroughly enjoys doing what he does and has cherry picked a staff with a similar passion. Together they have taken their special brand of service and brought it to the community. The reason for their rapid growth is twofold – there is a huge demand for what they do, and they do it at a world class level.

If you are the type of person that would go out with a group of your best pals or family for a special occasion and like the idea of doing so without anyone being a designated driver allowing everyone to join in the celebration than “Places To Go” is exactly what you are looking for. Going on a business trip or vacation and don’t want disrupt a friend or family member and ask them to drop you off at T.F. Green or Providence AMTRAK? Don’t like the idea of leaving your car at the airport and make it look like no one is home at your house?

Perhaps you just want to celebrate a friend’s birthday, an anniversary or work promotion? Maybe it’s a bachelor or bachelorette party? Maybe for no reason at all – you just want a night out with good people to blow off steam.

This is where “Places To Go” factors in. They provide a safe, affordable, stress-free livery service. If you ever wanted to know specifically what ‘livery’ means, just think [de]livery. You get picked up in a caravan or van by a friendly yet professional driver who not only has an impeccable driving record, but has undergone a rigorous background check that meets Ed’s high standards. All drivers are CPR certified, have drug screenings, reference checks, and criminal and driving record checks. If they don’t meet every standard, they are simply not hired. Ed hires only the best.

Places To Go is perfect for special occasions or any-old occasion or no reason at all.

It's not just about safety and perfect driving record for Ed, but it's also about personality. The drivers are the face of his business and he has seen first hand the direct benefits of passionate, friendly drivers does and has done for his business: a high percentage of his business comes from referrals and repeat customers.

There is no better way to drive a business's success than to offer a service or product that people rant and rave about and tell all their friend about. Ed has made this maxim the driving force for Places To Go and this is why and how they have grown in the manner they have.
