

Snowy, Messy and Wet Weather in Store for Greater New Bedford and Fall River Next Week

Thus far the 2022-2023 winter season has been pretty tame precipitation (snow) wise and while we did have a week of sub zero frigid temps we really cannot complain too much. Mother nature has decided that we're going to see a bit of the white stuff before its all said and done so we're keeping any eye on a storm front moving into area Monday night into Tuesday morning that COULD bring us 4 to 5 inches of rain. The good news is that temps will immediately rise and turn it to rain and then warm up on Wednesday which should melt most of it. However for a 24 to 36 hour period its going to messy on the roads and we'll have wet snow to shovel.

Here is the current weekend forecast through mid-week:

Sunday, cloudy. Slight chance of a rain shower. High 42F. Winds SSW at 10 to 20 mph

Monday, A mix of clouds and sun early, then becoming cloudy later in the day. High near 40F. Winds NNE at 5 to 10 mph.

Monday Night 02/27
