

Unsettled Weather Overnight and turning bitterly cold; deep freeze through Friday.

We're looking at rain late in the day/ early evening commute and then turning into a wintry mix overnight with slick road conditions. Chance of precipitation is 75%. Not much accumulation is expected, but if that changes we will certainly let you know. Driving conditions may be challenging; the best advice is to slow down.

Temperatures plummet Wednesday and Thursday with wind gusts making it feel like -10 to -20 below zero. Expect gusts of up to 40 MPH. Pipes may freeze, so take precautions and let those faucets drip.

Temps creep up a bit on Friday but won't get over 30 degrees until Sunday morning at earliest.

Dangerous wind chills means frostbite is a real possibility if you're outside too long unprotected. Exercise caution.
